

ABOUT THE STATE

HAPPENINGS OF INTEREST FROM DIFFERENT SECTIONS

The Christmas collection at the Church of the Holy Innocents in Rutland amounted to $1,400.

Mrs. Alzina Miner, who died Tuesday at her home of her son in Vergennes, had reached the age of 90 years.

During the day Monday 50 tons of sand were spread upon the sidewalks at Burlington. There are about 100 miles of walks.

Mrs. Floyd Lawrence died Saturday at her home in Springfield and only a few days before her two-year-old son, Robert, died. She was 21 years old.

As Fred Briggs was operating a jointing machine at the Rutland railroad shop in West Rutland, his hand slipped and three fingers on the left hand were severed.

Miles S. Hovey, aged 85 years, who has been a cooper and tub maker in St. Johnsbury for more than 50 years, died Jan. 16. He had gained a reputation through making large water tubs.

Stanton C. Dickinson of Rutland was seriously injured in Pittsford Sunday when he slipped and fell, striking his full weight on the side of a sleigh. One rib was fractured and he has other bruises.

George Phelps of Milton lost a $100 row and one of his span of horses the same day. The horse was found with a broken leg and had to be killed. It had been standing quietly in the stable and how its leg could have become broken is a mystery.

Employees of the J. R. Booth Lumber company in Burlington went on strike Monday, asking an increase in pay of $1 per week. No shorter hours were asked and the men are working 60 hours per week.

Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Clark observed the 60th anniversary of their marriage at their home in Putnam, Conn., recently. Mr. Clark was born in Greensboro 84 years ago. Mrs. Clark was born in Craftsbury 78 years ago. Among congratulatory letters they received was one from President Wilson.

The funeral of Mrs. Emily Gadder Dewey, who died at her home in Poultney Friday, was held Monday. She was 94 years old. Within an hour after returning from the funeral, her brother, Robert Gadder, with whom she lived, died very suddenly. Another sister, who had lived with them, died only a few weeks ago. Mr. Gadder was 85 years old.

TRIBUTE TO CLARKE C. FITTS.

Greater Vermont Association Adopts Resolutions.

The directors of the Greater Vermont association passed the following resolution on the death of Vice-President Clarke C. Fitts:

"Whereas, God in His infinite wisdom, (which we never question or doubt, although we may not always fully understand or properly appreciate) has early called our honored vice-president, Clarke C. Fitts, of Brattleboro to the enjoyment of the rewards of a noble and unselfish life, spent among the Green Hills of Vermont which he so dearly loved.

"Resolved, That the Greater Vermont association in the death of Mr. Fitts has lost one of its most illustrious, loyal and efficient members, whose splendid and almost unbounded faith in the future of our state was a constant inspiration to his associates and a perpetual incentive to further higher endeavor. "The good are the noble. His life filled the lives of others with sunshine. He has left a legacy of glory to his children. They can truthfully say, that within their veins is right royal blood—the blood of an honest, generous man—of a steadfast friend, of one who was true to the very gates of death.

"Resolved, That in the death of Mr. Fitts, Vermont has lost one of her great men of affairs, a man of high heart, high speech, high deeds, high honoring eyes."

"Resolved, That we who have been so signally benefitted by our association with Mr. Fitts and honored by his friendship, are, while filled with infinite sorrow at his loss, consoled by the thought that there is no world or future life beyond the shores of this, where he will not be loved and welcomed. With this thought and this consolation we extend our tenderest sympathy to all those who feel that the death of Mr. Fitts has taken something out of their lives that can never be replaced.

"Resolved, That these resolutions be spread upon the records of the Greater Vermont association and a copy sent to the family of Mr. Fitts."

Examinations for Tunbridge Postmaster.

The United States civil service commission announces that on Feb. 10, 1917, an examination will be held at Randolph as a result of which it is expected to make appointments to fill a contemplated vacancy in the position of fourth-class postmaster at Tunbridge, and other vacancies as they may occur at that office, unless it shall be decided in the interests of the service to fill the vacancy by reappointment. The compensation of the postmaster at this office was $905 for the last fiscal year.

Age limit, 21 years and over on the date of the examination, with the exception that in a state where women are declared by statute to be of full age for all purposes at 18 years, women 18 years of age on the date of the examination will be admitted.

Applicants must reside within the territory supplied by the postoffice for which the examination is announced.

The examination is open to all citizens of the United States who can comply with the requirements.

Application forms and full information concerning the requirements of the examination can be secured from the postmaster at Tunbridge, or from the U. S. civil service commission, Washington, D. C.

Applications should be properly executed and filed with the commission at Washington at least seven days before the date of the examination, otherwise it may be impracticable to examine the applicants. U. S. Civil Service Commission.

FEW DROPS AND CORN LIFTS OUT

Says There is No Excuse for Cutting Corns and Inviting Lockjaw

Sore corns, hard corns, soft corns, or any kind of a corn can hardly be lifted right out with the fingers if you will apply directly upon the corn a few drops of freezone, says a Cincinnati authority.

It is claimed that at a small cost one can get a quarter of an ounce of freezone at any drug store, which is sufficient to rid one's feet of every corn or callus without pain or soreness or the danger of infection.

This simple drug, while sticky, dries the moment it is applied, and does not inflame or even irritate the surrounding tissue.

This announcement will interest many women here, for it is said that the present high-heel footwear is putting corns on practically every woman's feet.—Adv.

WAS DEWEY'S CHIEF CLERK.

Jean J. Vanderveer of Brattleboro Recalls Many Incidents During Spanish War.

The death of Admiral George Dewey brought vividly to Jean J. Vanderveer of Brattleboro, steward at the Brattleboro Retreat, recollections of the battle of Manila bay, May 1, 1898, in which he served on the Baltimore as a chief yeoman and a few days later was transferred to the Olympia, Admiral Dewey's flagship, and assigned to duty as chief clerk to the admiral.

In that capacity he handled all of the correspondence relating to the activities of the Asiatic fleet, much of it being of international importance. He has a letter of recommendation from the admiral praising his services and stating that "the naval service is a loser by his discharge."

Speaking of the admiral, Mr. Vanderveer said that he was a martinet in the matter of discipline. His interpretation of the word duty was that a man must give every moment of his time to the service of his country.

The first letter which the admiral started to dictate after Mr. Vanderveer had been assigned to the position of chief clerk Mr. Vanderveer began to take in shorthand. The admiral glanced over his shoulder and asked what he was doing. Upon receiving the reply that he was taking the dictation in shorthand the admiral said: "None of that here. We want only one record of what is done in this office." After that Mr. Vanderveer said dictation was taken directly on the typewriter. The admiral was a rapid and very accurate dictator and never changed a word or a phrase after it came from the machine.

So important was the correspondence that the desk of the chief clerk was convertible into a bunk and there the chief clerk slept. He never left the office alone and when he was not there the master-at-arms was responsible for the correspondence contained in it.

After the battle in Manila bay the admiral slept very little at night, for he feared some action on the part of the German naval commander in the harbor. It was nothing unusual for him to enter the office of his clerk at 2 o'clock in the morning and dictate letters.

He had a marvelous memory and months after having dictated a letter he could ask the clerk for the copy of it, giving the date on which it had been dictated. He was a great student of international law, being about as well informed on it as many international lawyers, and at the time trouble was expected with the Germans he cited from memory to the German flag lieutenant six cases bearing on the attitude of the powers in situations like that then existing there.

The admiral was a thorough gentleman and courteous in the extreme. After the battle, when the Filipino women would row to the sides of the warships to sell fruits the admiral, when he saw one of them approaching the flagship, would step to the side, bow courteously, and nearly always buy some article.

He believed always in letting credit be given where credit was due. Two months after the battle when the first papers from the United States containing accounts of the battle were received by the men of the fleet in Manila bay, the admiral glanced at a front page of one of the papers which had a picture of him and exclaimed to his clerk:

"Isn't that wicked! They are giving me credit for what my officers and men did!"

The admiral had no intention, Mr. Vanderveer said, of remaining at Manila and in fact made arrangements to go to Honolulu after the battle, but when he sent word to Washington that he could take the city at any time the idea took root in Washington, and he received orders to take it.

Dewey had not been popular with the bureau chiefs at Washington and was sent to the command of the Asiatic fleet, considered the worst consignment of any in the navy. But along came the Spanish-American war and in a few weeks his name was heralded over the world as the man of the hour.

Mr. Vanderveer was eight months with the admiral as his chief clerk and had always been a staunch admirer of him, and although he had not seen him in several years, he feels a sense of personal loss in the news of his death.

SUPREME COURT DECISIONS.

Several Were Handed Down By Vermont Tribunal This Week.

The following opinions were recently handed down in Vermont supreme court: Justice John H. Watson read an opinion on the Washington county case of the State vs. Mary Shipman Gonyer, charged with keeping a house of ill fame in Barre. Judgment affirmed. The respondent was resentenced, the sentence being a fine of $150 and costs of $88.52 with costs of the higher court or of the alternative jail sentence.

Justice Seneca Haselton gave an opinion in the Orange county case of State vs. Dan Nelson, charged with burglary. Nelson was found guilty of the larceny of property worth $15. The respondent claimed the evidence was insufficient because the ownership of the property was not alleged. A fine of $40 and costs was imposed. Judgment was reversed and the case remanded in the lower court.

Judgment affirmed in the Windham county case of Grace M. Burnett vs. Frank A. Larrow and Harry Whitaker, an action to recover for injuries to the plaintiff's automobile in a collision with an automobile owned by Larrow and driven by Whitaker. The original verdict awarded the plaintiff $908.33 damages.

Appeal dismissed in the Washington county case of Natt D. Page against Thomas H. Cave, jr., administrator, and others.

Judgment affirmed by agreement of the parties in the Windsor county case of M. V. Austin and E. W. White against James Rice.

Judgment reversed in the Addison county case of Josephine Ward against Catarhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure catarrhal deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a running sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Many cases of deafness are caused by catarrh, which is an inflamed condition of the mucous surface of the Eustachian tube. Catarrh of the Eustachian tube is a disease which can be cured by Hall's Catarrh Medicine. Circulars free. All Druggists.

SALT RHEUM IN WATER BLISTERS

On Hands. Red and Rough. Would Crack Open and Itch and Burn. Could Not Sleep.

"I had salt rheum on my hands. It came in little water blisters which began to itch and fester and then I was treated but it did me no good. My hands were red and rough and would crack open and bleed and they would itch and burn so that I was unable to do anything. I scratched, causing inflammation. I could not sleep and I could not do work of any kind."

"At last I went for a sample of Cuticura Soap and ointment. The sample did so much good that I bought one bar of Cuticura Soap and one box of Ointment, and in a short time I was perfectly healed." (Signed) Miss Lena M. Goodale, 130 Mt. Vernon Ave., Augusta, Me., Sept. 17, 1915.

Sample Each Free by Mail. With 32-p. Skin Book on request. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston." Sold throughout the world.
